

raumlabor giardini treasure map

raumlaborberlin

Am Flutgraben 3

12435 Berlin

t +49 30 27580882

f +49 30 / 2476319

hello@raumlabor-berlin.de

www.raumlabor-berlin.de cross-genre collaborations and teamwork in architecture, art, urban strategies and performance

GIARDINI TREASURE MAP

venice, october 2006

invited by exyzt

raumlaborberlin (Benjamin Foerster-Baldenius, Matthias Rick)
with Alexander Römer

A one-week workshop in the French pavilion of the Architecture Biennale; this is an exhibition garden in which a biennale takes place early each autumn. It remains empty the rest of the year; totally empty? No, it's full of leftovers from past exhibitions, enough to build a house and all its comfort. Everything can be had for free in the Giardini: materials, furniture, water, electricity. The "Treasure Map" shows this hidden potential, where it is to be found and how it can be accessed.

-  space/found material
-  underused space
-  infrastructure
-  hidden trace
-  secret entrance to giardini
-  rear entrance to pavillion

giardini treasuremap

giardini treasure map

